VALEDICTORY

It is difficult for us to realize that this is our graduation night. Most of us came here as wee beginners and, as time passed, we progressed from class to class. Our school became a second home to us, and the thought of leaving brings us sadness. However, it is time for us to go; and we are eager to begin the new life ahead.

We believe that our education has prepared us to meet the challenge of living in an adult world. We hope to lead happy, successful lives and always to reflect credit on our school.

As we say farewell, we leave to each of you our love and gratitude and the best wishes for our beloved school.

SALUTATORY

On behalf of the class of 1957 I welcome all of you. We are happy to have you with us tonight. This is the moment that we have worked for, planned for, and dreamed about for many years.

We are grateful for your help in preparing us for the future. Everyone at the Indiana School for the Deaf has a place in our hearts, and nothing can ever erase the happy memories that we have and hold dear.

Again we heartily welcome you, one and all.
